MAY ALSO FIGHT GOV. DAVIDSON

More Talk On The United States Senatorial Fight—Real Battle For State Supremacy Has Just Begun.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 21.—Official returns of the recent election in Wisconsin for justice of the supreme court in succession to the late Chief Justice Cassoday show that the sitting judge, R. M. Bashford, was defeated by John Barnes by more than 50,000 plurality. Never before in this state was a member of the court defeated when he ran for election after once getting a place on the bench by appointment.

Out of this circumstance may come interesting political developments. It is said that the La Follette people, who supported Barnes against Bashford, have been emboldened and are considering seriously the proposition of placing in the field next fall a candidate for governor against James O. Davidson, the present executive.

They figure that the overwhelming defeat of Bashford, the appointee of Governor Davidson, has shown that the present executive is not strong

MORE LOCAL OPTION WARS IN ILLINOIS

Smaller Cities and Villages Are Voting on No-License Question.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, April 21.—The struggle between the "wets" and the "drys" was renewed at the polls in various parts of Illinois today. About two score of the smaller cities and villages of the state are voting on the proposition to abolish the saloons. Though the elections today are insignificant as compared with those held two weeks ago, when the greater part of the state voted on the proposition, it is still possible that today's contests may result in adding three whole counties to the "dry" territory. These counties are Perry, Pulaski and Washington. Cairo is the only large city which is voting today. The Anti-Saloon league has been making a valiant fight there, but with small hopes of success. With its population of about 15,000 the city of Cairo has seventy-three saloons.

LOUISIANA ELECTS STATE OFFICIALS

Only Contest Is Over One of the Proposed Constitutional Amendments.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New Orleans, La., April 21.—The quadrennial state election in Louisiana is in progress today. So far as the voting for state officers is concerned, little interest is manifested. The contest for governor and other officials was settled at the democratic primary several months ago. Jared Y. Sanders, the new governor, and other officials will take office next month.

Five constitutional amendments are being voted for in today's election. One is to put the office of secretary of state on a salary instead of a fee basis. Two of the proposed amendments deal with the extension of the power of the state railroad commission, and a fourth aims to prevent the removal by foreign corporations of assets from the state courts into the federal courts. The fifth of the proposed amendments is for the reduction of the number of state tax collectors in the city of New Orleans from seven to one. The last of the amendments is the only one that has met with any serious opposition.

Washington, D. C., April 21.—David De Armond, representative and member of congress from Missouri, has come out strongly for a new constitution and opposes the "czardom" of the speaker of the house. He says in part as follows regarding the constitution: "It was brought forth in primitive times when riches did not abound, and when mighty combinations were unknown. Can it be fully adapted to an age of steam and electricity, and prodigious wealth? We should have a convention to consider and propose amendments fitting conditions of the present day. Much directly valuable would surely come out of such a convention. It would at least serve as a clearing house for thought upon and consideration of most important governmental matters."

Speaking of the judiciary Mr. De Armond said: "In my judgment, his insight was greater than any in the judiciary branch of our government the largest element of danger to our republican institutions."

"So steadily and so greatly have the judges magnified their office that a congressional enactment is lightly treated as unconstitutional, according to the judgment, prejudice, or whim of the pitiless federal judge in the land. Is it not enough to let the responsibility of nullifying the legislative will rest upon the supreme court alone. Why not let laws be laws until solemnly declared by the supreme court not to be laws. Why not deprive every inferior court of the power or assumed power, to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of congress?"

Turning toward conditions in congress Mr. De Armond said: "Once it was possible for a few members of the lower house of congress to block legislation for a good while by filibustering. Now, one man, the speaker, exercises a veto power greater than that of the president. The speaker enforces majority and minority indefinitely."

"Some day, perhaps, a minority manly enough to fight against the one man power will awake to find itself in the majority for the great American people will not suffer their faithful representatives to be permanently or even long the victims of a despotic policy."

JOHN BROWN WAS NAMED MARSHAL

CITY COUNCIL FINALLY GOT IN ITS WORK.

AT SESSION LAST EVENING

Final Meeting of August City Fathers Was Far from Being a Love-Fest.

Disregarding state law which stipulates that the city marshal shall be named by the fire and police commission, the common council proceeded to elect a candidate for that office last evening. Four ballots were taken.

Aldermen Morrill and O'Hara were absent from the session and the first vote stood: John Brown, 3; Michael McCue, 1; George Appleby, 1; Sam Dorn, 1; Theodore Roosevelt, 1; and blank, 1. On the second ballot Brown had 3 votes; Appleby, 2; Dorn, 1; Wallace Cushman, 1; and W. H. Morrill, 1. On the third ballot Brown received 5 votes; Appleby, 1; Dorn, 1; and J. W. Clark, 1. When Mayor Hodges took it for granted that no choice had been made and waited for the aldermen to prepare for another ballot, Alderman Sheridan rose to inquire if the vote of a majority of the aldermen present did not constitute an election. City Attorney H. L. Maxwell held that it did. Mayor Hodges over-ruled the city attorney's decision.

CHIEF OF POLICE GEO. APPLEBY election, stating that it had always required six votes to elect. Alderman Brown said that he was convinced that he had no right to vote for any possible incumbent of the city marshal's office had asked to be excused. Mayor Hodges was unwilling to excuse him and the council proceeded to the fourth ballot. The mayor's ruling that a simple majority of those present could not elect evidently found in favor with one of the three who had registered negative votes on the first ballot. The three were Aldermen Sheldon, Clark, and Brown. On this fourth ballot John Brown received 6 votes; George Appleby, 1; and blank, 1. In a tone of voice bordering on some little astonishment, Ald. Clark inquired if anyone had voted twice. The city clerk looked over the ballots and stated that just eight had been cast. As Alderman Brown had made an unsuccessful attempt to be excused from the voting on the grounds that he believed the council had no right in the matter, it seemed a foregone conclusion that he had voted the blank; that Ald. Clark had cast the single vote for George Appleby, and that Ald. Sheldon had voted the heavy. Alderman Dorn, who had been absent from the session, after some delay the mayor announced that "By your vote you have elected John Brown city marshal."

Serio-Comic Prologue
The main action of the drama was preceded by an entertaining prologue in which General Disrespect, "old the heavy," Alderman Dorn, and the city attorney, who had been absent from the session, after some delay the mayor announced that "By your vote you have elected John Brown city marshal."

der if he saw it and report back to the council. The council could then pass it over his head by a two-thirds vote. Ald. Bushholz gave some citations of law and stated among other things that while the fire and police commission had apparently elected George Appleby as city marshal, the bond which the latter filed and which the council did not accept was made out for chief of police. From some of the excerpts of law he concluded that the fire and police commission exceeded its authority in not notifying the council of its action in electing a marshal. Ald. Dorn, this time in a somewhat belligerent mood, alluded to criticisms of the common council by the Press and Ald. Brown's recent designation of the council members as "a lot of calves." He ended quite calmly, however, with the statement that he was "just trying to see who's right."

Business Transacted
The bonds of the newly elected officers were found in due form and accepted; also those filed by George & Clemons, McVicar Bros., Charles E. Snyder, and W. J. Hill. The license committee was granted further time for the consideration of a petition from Charles Dates and Ray H. Sewell for permission to run a lunch wagon on the streets. Orders directing the park committee to improve the Fourth Ward park by the laying of cement gutters and curb and providing for additional sewers in District 14—on Milwaukee avenue from Harrison street to Garfield avenue, and on Garfield avenue from Milwaukee avenue to South Third street—were passed. The meeting closed with a tribute by Ald. Bushholz and the Mayor to the departing aldermen.

FOWLER MEASURE TO BE REPORTED

CURRENCY COMMISSION FAVORED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE.

VREELAND BILL TABLED

House Upholds Cannon's Summary Action to Check Fillbuster—Investigation of Paper Trust is Proposed.

Washington, Apr. 21.—The house committee on banking and currency Monday voted to lay on the table the financial bill offered by Representative Vreeland of New York as a substitute for the Aldrich bill, and decided to report favorably the bill recently introduced by Chairman Fowler, providing for a currency commission to consist of 43 members, 11 members of the senate, 11 members of the house and 21 others, who must be citizens of the United States.

The action of the committee was taken late in the afternoon after a meeting lasting all day. Representative Vreeland appeared before the committee and made a long argument in favor of his bill, saying he thought it would be criminal negligence for congress to adjourn without passing some measure of protection in the event of another panic this fall. He did not, however, think that a panic was imminent. Mr. Vreeland said that his bill was an emergency measure only, and he favored the appointment of a currency commission to consider a permanent banking and currency law.

House Upholds Cannon. With the exception of Messrs. Cooper and Nelson of Wisconsin, Republicans, the house of representatives Monday by a strict party vote, declared that the action of Speaker Cannon last Saturday in summarily adjourning the house was not "a breach of the privilege of the house affecting its safety, dignity and the integrity of its proceedings." The declaration was made when a resolution by Mr. Williams holding such a breach to have been committed, was tabled 146 to 119. The vote was preceded by statements by both Mr. Williams and the speaker.

After disclaiming that as a result of the episode there would be a personal breach between him and the speaker, Mr. Williams maintained that the action was an unprecedented parliamentary act. On the other hand, Speaker Cannon called attention to the dilatory tactics of the minority leader for the past two weeks and said it was the speaker's privilege, and his duty, to sweep aside a dilatory demand and declare the house adjourned.

Paper Trust Investigation. A definite step was taken toward a solution of the wood pulp and newspaper cost question in the introduction by Speaker Cannon of a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of six members to investigate "and obtain all possible information," as to the reasons for the increased prices of white paper "to the end that needful legislation may be enacted." The resolution, which was referred to the committee on rules, of which the speaker is chairman, empowers the committee to sit "in Washington or elsewhere," during sessions of the house and the recess of congress.

Senate for Two Battleships. After consideration of less than two hours the senate committee on naval affairs reported the naval appropriation bill to the senate. It carries $111,540,540, an increase of $7,579,031 over the amount of the bill as it was passed by the house.

On the battleship construction program the senate committee adopted the policy of the house, making no change in the provision for two vessels. The president's message advocating the construction of four battleships was not considered, as it was known that the committee was unanimously opposed to that program.

Borah on Brownsville Affair. The Brownsville affair was again a subject of interest in the senate when Senator Borah of Idaho took the ground that negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry were guilty of the raid that occurred in the Texas town August 13-14, 1906. Mr. Borah analyzed the testimony taken in that case and declared that no reasonable man could read it and fail to be convinced that negro soldiers "shot up" the town. He scouted the suggestion of a conspiracy among citizens of Brownsville to create a state of riot in their own town and wound and kill their own citizens in order to secure the removal of the negro troops.

W. C. Leckie of Dowagiac Dead. Kalamazoo, Mich., Apr. 21.—W. C. Leckie of Dowagiac, prominent in the order of Elks and for many years manager of the Beckwith Memorial theater there, died in a hospital here from complications which followed an operation performed a month ago. Mr. Leckie was born in Jackson, Mich., 44 years ago and was for many years prominent in the stove business in connection with a Dowagiac institution.

Ambassador Bryce Comes West. Washington, Apr. 21.—Ambassador James Bryce of Great Britain left here Monday night for Chattanooga and Memphis. At the former place, on Tuesday he is to address a missionary laymen's conference, and at the latter place later in the week the southern educational conference.

BRAVE MAN SAVES $20,000.

Burglar at Oil City Routed by Express Company Clerk.

Oil City, Pa., Apr. 21.—The bravery and coolness of John Truby, an employee of the Adams Express company here, prevented a burglar from getting a package containing $20,000 early Monday. Several shots were exchanged between Truby and the robber, who ran to the railroad yards and supposedly escaped on a freight train. Truby was busy billing packages when he saw the robber climbing through a rear window. The latter saw Truby at the same time and, leveling a revolver at the clerk, commanded him to make no outcry. Truby jumped out of range and, drawing his own revolver, fired at the robber. The latter dropped to the ground and the clerk rushed to the door and fired three shots at the retreating burglar, who returned the fire as he ran.

GREEKS ARE DYNAMITED.

Tie-Cutters Blown Up in Tent Near Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Apr. 21.—Eleven Greek tie cutters were blown from their bunks in a tent near here early Monday by the explosion of dynamite that had surreptitiously been placed under the flooring of the tent. Frank Goffa's right eye was blown nearly out and he will likely die. James Goffa, his brother, was internally injured. The others received minor hurts. illicit timber cutters are suspected of having placed the dynamite under the tent floor.

Mexican War Veteran Gone.

Oklahoma City, Ok., Apr. 21.—Dr. J. W. Phillips, a Mexican war veteran and who, as a member of the twenty-sixth general assembly of Illinois, was instrumental in the reduction of railroad fare to three cents a mile in that state, died here Monday, aged 81 years.

Spectator of Street Duel Killed.

Burlingame, La., Apr. 21.—One spectator was killed and five others wounded Monday during a street duel here. Both duellists were wounded, but not seriously. The fight was between C. J. Morton and W. F. Barham, both prominent in this section.

J. A. Matthews Passes Away.

HOGS GOT HALF A TON OF BUTTER EVERY YEAR.

Hopkimer, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1906. Did you ever feel like kicking your own self? I have felt like that every time I think of what I have been throwing away for the last twelve years. Six tons of butter carried to the hogs in that time! I made 315 lbs. per cow in 1904, deep setting; 358 lbs. per cow in 1905, using Sharples Dairy Tubular; 53 lbs. per cow for 20 cows makes 1060 lbs.; this, at 28 cts., makes about $296.80. I guess the Sharples Tubular has paid for itself all right. Skim milk worth double, too.

WILLIAM McKERRROW.

A letter like the above pretty near tells its own tale, and yet many farmers are in the same fix that he was in, and many others have unsatisfactory separators.

HAVE YOU MADE A MISTAKE?

We all make them occasionally and when we discover our mistakes the best thing we can do is to correct them with as little delay as possible. Many honest people have been induced to buy inferior cream separators because of false statements made by the manufacturers and their agents. Others have bought cheaply constructed machines for which great claims are made and which are advertised as being sold at a great reduction in price by mail order houses and others who have no reputation to sustain, and who have no interest in the separators they sell other than to convert them into money. As a matter of fact these machines are sold at a higher percentage of profit than is asked for Sharples Tubular Separators. They are cheaply built and scarcely worth anything at all. To those who have been unfortunate enough to buy these inferior machines we offer relief. We want them to enjoy using the best separator made and will help them to do so. If you have an unsatisfactory separator and want a good one write me for information regarding my exchange proposition, or better still, call and see me when in Janesville. I have a little booklet that will give full information that you can have. Drop me a postal.

Attendant in Moving Telegraph Message, Which Has Been Transmitted at the Rate of a Thousand Words a Minute.

One thousand words a minute is the latest record for telegraphic transmission by the Morse code. The average word contains four letters, hence 4,000 letters a minute. These letters are transmitted in the Morse telegraphic code composed of dots and dashes. There is an average of three dots or dashes to each letter and a separate and distinct positive impulse of electricity is necessary for each dot or dash. This means 12,000 positive impulses to record 12,000 characters in a minute or 200 of them in a second.

The old Morse hand sending system is now in general use throughout the country. The Morse hand operator of today can transmit messages no more rapidly than he could 50 years ago. The speed attainable by the wrist has always been fixed and the human agent has reached his limit.

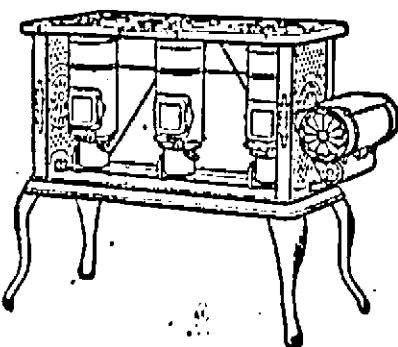

The greatest speed of the most expert hand operator is from 40 to 45 words a minute. The system above pictured consists of the invention of Patrick H. Delany and is known as the "teletype." Messages are sent and received by automatic machines and consequently with machine-like accuracy. It cost under the old system an average of 32.2 cents to send a 10-word telegram. The new system can send 50 words at an average cost of 11 cents.

FIVE PER CENT

A lady called at our office a few days ago and said that she had been informed that we paid more than three per cent on deposits.

We soon learned that her informant had purchased some five per cent bonds of us and that she had misunderstood.

We do not believe that a bank can safely and profitably pay a higher rate than three per cent on deposits.

However, we have for sale bonds issued by the city of Janesville and the city of Evansville and other bonds which will net the investor from four to five per cent.

All of these bonds are ideal long time investments and we can unhesitatingly recommend them.

MODEL FARM ON WHICH TRAMPS ARE REFORMED IN BELGIUM.

The world, and especially the United States, may well take to heart the lesson Belgium is teaching the world—the reforming of tramps.

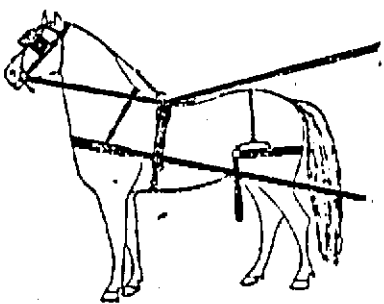

At Mersplas, a small village about 24 miles from Antwerp, the government operates a large model farm. It obtained several hundred acres of land suitable for diversified agriculture, upon this it erected the finest of farm buildings, and stocked it with the best cattle, sheep, horses and hogs that could be obtained. Skilled overseers were installed as instructors and guards, and the magistrates of all communities were directed to send all tramps to Mersplas rather than to jail.

On arriving at Mersplas the tramp is registered; his pedigree is taken, and he receives a bath. His old clothes are taken away, fumigated and stored in his name, and he dons the farm uniform, a loose jacket and trousers, white in summer, brown in winter, with a round cloth cap or a broad-brimmed straw hat, according to the season. Then he is taken out and put to work. If he knows anything about farming, the rest is simple; but if he has never worked upon a farm, he is taught the simplest operations, such as digging, weeding, shearing, mowing, and feeding hay. He is kept hard at work from early morning till sunset, in all kinds of weather, but he is fed upon an abundance of substantial food, and he sleeps without dreaming. Discipline is easy to enforce, as the tramps have little opportunity for conspiring, and the place is so well guarded by sentinels with rifles that attempts at escape are not thought of.

A few months of this work transforms the tramp into an active, vigorous, healthy farm laborer. He soon learns that he is far happier working than loafing, and he makes up his mind that as soon as he is a liberty he will go to work. In other words, he is reformed effectually, rather than punished. Herein lies the wisdom of the Belgian plan; her useless citizens are transformed into useful members of society, and without expense, for the farm at Mersplas more than pays expenses, a thing that can be said of very few penal or charitable institutions in the world. The produce of the farm is hauled to market by the tramp farmers, and sold at the market rates; hence, it does not come into unfair competition with union labor, which, by the way, is very strong in Belgium.

This sort of life is, of course, disagreeable to the lazy ne'er-do-well, and so he gives Belgium a wide berth.

WANTED:

Men With Trained Brains

There is a call for men who can work with their heads as well as their hands; men who have brains enough to become foremen, superintendents or managers, and to hold the more responsible positions in the technical world.

You will find, in daily and trade papers everywhere, hundreds of advertisements for trained men, emphasizing a condition that has existed in the business and industrial world for years, that is—the scarcity of a specialist. There are plenty of men to fill the jobs that require only muscle, but not enough to go around for the high salaried positions that require training and special knowledge.

There are today a large number of high-class positions paying good salaries open to men who are properly qualified to fill them, positions that are actually lying vacant because trained men cannot be found who are capable of filling them. Are YOU doing anything to prepare yourself to fill one of them within the next six months or a year?

The Great Training School

The International Correspondence Schools are doing more in training men for better positions than any other means in the world. This is proved by hundreds of thousands of satisfied students all over the United States who have taken advantage of the opportunity offered by this great institution, who are today holding high positions of trust.

You can, do as well.

Make the start by marking and mailing the coupon NOW.

Please explain, without further obligation on my part, how I can qualify for a larger salary in the position, or gain a knowledge of the subject, before which I have marked X.

ROCK PRAIRIE

Rock Prairie, April 20.—The entertainment given by the Milton College State Quartette at the U. P. church last Thursday evening was a great treat to all that attended and especially so to many on the Prairie who have a lively interest in Milton college. The selection of the songs was most happy and the blending of the rich voices of the different parts so harmonious and pleasing that every number was thoroughly enjoyed as well as the most rendered readings interspersed. ## FIRST STEP FOR THAW'S RELEASE

PERMISSION GIVEN TO APPLY FOR HABEAS CORPUS WRIT.

TO DETERMINE SANITY

His Attorney Convinced the Prisoner Is of Sound Mind—Nothing May Be Done for Several Weeks.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Apr. 21.—The first step in proceedings looking to the release of Harry K. Thaw from the state asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan was taken Monday. James G. Graham of Newburgh, formerly secretary to Gov. Odell, appeared as Thaw's counsel before Justice Morschauer of the New York state supreme court at White Plains and applied for an order directing the superintendent of the asylum to permit Thaw to sign an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

The order was promptly granted and it will probably be served upon the acting superintendent of the asylum at once.

According to the usual procedure in such cases, Thaw will sign the application for a writ of habeas corpus, which will then be submitted to a justice of the supreme court, probably Justice Morschauer. Then Thaw will appear before a justice of the supreme court for a hearing to determine whether he should be released from the asylum as sane.

Graham Sure He Is Sane.

New York, Apr. 21.—James G. Graham of Newburgh, who was engaged by Harry K. Thaw about two weeks ago to take legal steps to bring about his release from Matteawan asylum, said Monday night that the application made to Justice Morschauer at White Plains for an order to permit Thaw to sign an application for habeas corpus was a preliminary step for a hearing to determine the sanity of Thaw. Mr. Graham added that it would probably be several weeks before the application was made for a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Graham then said:

"Since I was retained in the case by Mr. Thaw about two weeks ago I have made a careful study of his condition and I feel perfectly satisfied that Harry Thaw is a sane man. There is a deep question in my mind whether he should ever have been sent to Matteawan, and when the hearing is held I have no doubt there will be produced sufficient evidence to show that he is sane and should be released."

No Request to Commission.

Albany, N. Y., Apr. 21.—A. W. Ferris, president of the state commission in lunacy, said Monday night that no formal request had been made to the commission since Harry Thaw was committed to Matteawan for a certification as to his mental condition. Dr. Ferris said that the medical authorities at Matteawan have been observing Thaw's condition daily, but have not made a report to the commission, and have not been requested to make a report.

Dr. Ferris said also that Thaw's immediate relatives, counsel and physicians have been permitted to see him daily.

C. of New York, was second, and Fowler of Cambridgeport, Mass., A. C., was third.

A JANESVILLE CASE

Many More Like It in Janesville.

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Janesville. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Chas. W. Allen, of 126 Chatham St., Janesville, Wis., says: "After my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, I am ready to recommend them as a remedy that can be relied upon in kidney troubles and backache. I tried many different remedies for these complaints, but until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Peoples' drug company I found little or no help. After a few days' use of Doan's Kidney Pills, the aching and other symptoms left me and since I discontinued their use, have never returned."

TRACTION MEN EXONERATED

NEW YORK GRAND JURY FAILS TO FIND CRIME EVIDENCE.

Political Contributions of the Companies Severely Condemned, Though No Law Was Violated.

New York, Apr. 21.—In a presentment filed with Justice Dowling in the criminal branch of the supreme court late Monday, the special grand jury, which has been investigating the affairs of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, the Metropolitan Securities company and subsidiary companies, exonerates the officials of the companies of any wrongdoing. The juryman state that after a prolonged and careful investigation they are unable to obtain any evidence showing the commission of a crime upon which they could act.

In the evidence taken it was brought out that in April, 1903, one of the items of expense of the Metropolitan Street Railway company was $30,700, which was given for political purposes. Of this amount $10,700 was given to Tammany Hall. The money, it was shown, was placed in an envelope and taken to Tammany Hall. The remainder, $20,000, was given to Lemuel E. Quigg, who in turn handed it over to ex-Gov. Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., then chairman of the Republican state committee. In their reference to this contribution the grand jury says that they believe no law was violated at that time, but that they do not approve of the contribution and that it was deserving of severe condemnation.

Other matters besides complaints against the Metropolitan management are considered, and the presentment touches upon the financial matters of banking institutions in the city and the indictments which had been found against certain officials, including ex-President William H. Montgomery of the Hamilton bank, Edward R. Thomas, Orlando F. Thomas and Charles W. Morse.

After stating that the members of the grand jury are of the opinion that there is no widespread dishonesty in the administration of financial institutions in this country, the presentment continues:

"Such crime of this character as it has learned of seems to have been confined to a single group of persons acting together in the control and management of certain institutions well known to have been dominated by such group."

SCHEDULE FIXED FOR MOTOR CAR

MAKES THREE TRIPS DAILY BETWEEN JANESVILLE AND DELOIT.

BUILT BY UNION PACIFIC

Has a Two Hundred Horse Power Engine and Makes Trip in Thirty-five Minutes.

Motor car No. 1 now runs on a regular schedule between here and Deloit, making three trips daily and taking thirty-five minutes to each trip. It leaves here at six in the morning, at noon, and at seven-thirty at night, and on its return from its last trip is put in the roundhouse here for the night.

The accompanying pictures give a good idea of the car. The entire outside is covered with steel plates painted dark brown.

The front end, in which is the cab for the motorman, tapers to a point. The engine, which is placed in the front end of the car, is a two hundred horse power water cooled six cylinder engine and has given good satisfaction. The entrance, as can be seen in the pictures, are at either side in the middle of the car. A short flight of steps leads up to the level of the floor of the car and doors open into the smoking compartment. In the forward end of the car and into the passenger compartment in the rear. Its entire length is about sixty feet and it will carry sixty passengers.

It was designed and constructed at the Omaha shops of the Union Pacific after plans made by W. H. McKee, Jr., superintendent of motive power and machinery for the Union Pacific. This car was placed on a daily run between Norfolk, Neb., and Homestead, S. Dakota, on November 17, last, and made a round trip run of 232 miles daily for several months without a single interruption and usually on time. The maximum grade on that line is sixty-two feet which the car easily ascended at fair speed when loaded.

The Northwestern road has decided to use gasoline motors for branch line work in the state of Wisconsin and to gradually extend their use to supplant locomotives wherever practicable.

Weak Women
 To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are so simple, both so essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
 Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.
 The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is an internal medicine, given rectally, which acts on the entire system, seeking the seat of all liver, all blood, and all blood ailments.
 The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, taken internally, gives renewed vigor and builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is a woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

CHAPTER IX.

QUICKLY as Elsie had reached the deck, the warlike sounds which disturbed her rest had ceased. Save for the foot-steps of men whom she could not see, the prevalent noises were caused only by wind and steel. While she was hurrying forward as rapidly as the darkness permitted, the lights were switched on with a suddenness that made her gasp. The dog began to bark again, but it was easy to distinguish his sharp yelps of excitement and defiance from the earlier notes of alarmed suspicion. In fact, Joey himself was the first to discover the stealthy approach of the Indians. Courtney and Tollenmache, who took the middle watch, from midnight to 4 a. m., had failed to note the presence of several canoes on the ink black surface of the bay until the dog warned them by growling and ruffling the bristles on his back. The night was pitch dark. The moon was not only hidden by the hills of the island, but frequent storms of rain and hail rendered it impossible while they raged to see or hear beyond the distance of a few feet.

In all probability as the canoes bore down from whithered Joey had sensed them. He also gave the highly important information as to the quarter from which attack might be expected. Three men at least had gained the deck, but the prompt use of a revolver had caused them to retreat as silently and speedily as they had appeared. That was all. There was no actual fight. The phantoms vanished as suddenly as they came. The only external lights on the ship were the must-head and side lights lighted by Courtney to reveal the steamer's whereabouts in case one of the boats chanced to be driven into the bay during the dark hours. There was an electric lamp turned on in the donkey engine room and another in the main salon, but means were taken to exclude them from showing without. If the Indians meant to be actively hostile, lights on board would be more helpful to the assailants than to the assaulted.

When the captain and Tollenmache followed Joey's lead, they discerned three demure figures vaguely outlined by the ruddy glare of the port light in the very act of climbing the rails. They fired instantly, and the naked forms vanished. Both men thought they heard the splashing caused by the leaping or falling of the Indians into the sea. By the same subdued radiance Courtney made out the top of a pole or mast sticking up close to the ship's side. He leaned over, fired a couple of shots downward at random, seized the pole and hushed it to a stanchion with a loose rope end, a remnant of one of the awnings. A small craft, even an Indian canoe, would be most useful, and its capture might tend to secure the attackers.

Telling Tollenmache to mount guard, he raced back to the saloon hatch and summoned assistance. The others searched the ship in small detachments, but the Indians were gone. It was manifest that none beyond those driven off at the first onset had secured a footing on deck. Then, taking the risk of being shot at, Courtney ordered the lights to be turned on, and the first person he saw clearly was Elsie. He was almost gently angry with her.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded.

She was learning not to fear his brusque ways. He was no carpet knight, and men who carry their lives in their hands do not pick and choose their words.

"I thought you were in danger, so I came to help," she said calmly.

Seldom Wear Out

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain—not only once, but as many times as it is necessary to take them. Many persons who suffer from chronic ailments find in them a source of great relief from the suffering which they would otherwise be compelled to endure. Their soothing influence upon the nerves strengthens rather than weakens them. For this reason they seldom lose their effectiveness.

"I am 62 years old and have suffered for 43 years from nervous troubles, rheumatism and neuralgia, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and pain around the heart. This Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have been a blessing to me. I don't know what I should do without them, and they are the only remedy I have ever used that either did not wear out in less time than I have been using them, or else the injurious results were such that I would be obliged to cease their use."

"You must go back to your cabin at once."

"Why? Of what avail is the safety of my cabin if you are killed?"

A woman's logic is apt to be irritating when one expects a flight of arrows or, it may be, a gunshot out of the darkness a few feet away.

"For goodness' sake, stand here, then!" he cried, seizing her arm and compelling her to shelter behind the heavy molding which curved the bridge. Then he quitted her for a moment in order to dispatch a Chilean sailor for a lantern and a long cord. He wished to investigate the captured canoe.

The lantern was brought. Courtney stood on the lowermost rail and carefully paid out a rope to which the light was hung. He was far too brave a man to take undue risks. He was ready to shoot instantly if need be, and by his instructions Tollenmache and Walker kept watch as best they could in case other canoes were lying close to the ship.

Any doubt in this regard was dispelled in a singular manner. The flickering rays of the lantern had barely revealed the primitive craft lying alongside when a voice came from the depths, crying in broken Spanish:

"Don't shoot, senor! Spare me, for the love of heaven! I am a white man from Argentina!"

Christobal and Elsie alone understood the exact significance of the words. Courtney of course knew what language was being spoken, and it was easy to guess the nature of the appeal. But the lantern showed that the canoe was empty. In the center lay the Fuegian fire, its embers covered with a small pile. The pole, fastened to a crosspiece in the thwart, was not a mast, but had evidently been shipped in order to give speedy access to the deck by climbing.

Then Courtney caught sight of two hands clinging to the stern of the canoe. He swung the lantern in that direction, and an extraordinary and even an affrighting object became visible. A caricature of a human head was raised slightly above the level of the water. It was crowned by a shock of coarse black knotted hair tied back from the brow by a fillet of white feathers. An intensely black face, crossed by two bars of red and white pigment, reaching from ear to ear and covering eyelids, nose and lips, was upturned to the watchers from the deck. The colors were vivid enough notwithstanding the sheets of rain which blew in gusts against the ship's side, dimming the dull light of a storm proof lamp, to convey a most unmeaning effect. Nor did Courtney remove either his eyes or the revolver while he said to Christobal:

"Ask him who he is and what he wants."

The answer was intelligible enough: "I am a miner from Argentina. I have been among these Indians five years. When their attack failed I thought there was a chance of escape. For pity's sake, senor, help me instantly, or I shall die from the cold."

"Have the Indians gone?" asked Christobal.

"Yes. They thought to surprise you. When they came again it will be by daylight, as they are afraid of the dark. But be quick, I implore you. My hands are numb."

There was no resisting the man's appeal. A rope ladder was lowered, and a Chilean sailor went down in obedience to the captain's order, though he disliked the job and crossed himself before descending. He passed a rope under the fugitive's armpits and with aid from the deck hoisted him aboard. The unfortunate miner gave proof of his wretched state by promptly collapsing in a faint, with a sigh of "Andrade Dios!"

His only garments were a species of waistcoat and rough trousers of untanned guanaco hide. The white skin of his breast and legs, though darkened by exposure, showed that he had told the truth as to his descent, but notwithstanding the amazing dubs on his face, his hair, stiffened with black grease, stood out all around his head, and the same oily composition had been used to blacken his forehead, neck and hands.

Some brandy and hot water, combined with the warmth of the saloon, soon revived him. He ate a quantity of bread with the eagerness of a man suffering from starvation.

Christobal brought him to the chart house, where most of the others were assembled, and there questioned him.

It was a most astonishing story which Francisco Suarez, a gold miner and prospector, told before an exceedingly attentive audience. As the man spoke so did he recover the fever usage of a civilized tongue. At first his words had a hoarse, guttural sound, but Dr. Christobal's questions seemed to awaken dormant memories, and every one noticed, not least those who had small knowledge of Spanish, that he had practically recovered command of the language at the end of half an hour.

And this was what he told them:

He, with three partners and a few Indians from the pampas, had set out on a gold prospecting expedition on the headwaters of the Gallegos river. They were disappointed in their search until they crossed the cordillera and sighted the glowing shores of Last Hope Inlet, leading into South channel. There they found alluvial sand and gold bearing quartz, yielding but poor results. Unfortunately some natives assured them that the metal they might abounded in Hanover Island. They obtained canoes, voyaged down the long inlet, crossed the strait and struck inland toward the unknown mountains beyond the swamps of Bl-len bay.

After enduring all the hardships entailed by life in such a wild country they blundered into a gully where a brief analysis of the dirtiness gave a result person which was not to be measured by ounces, but by pounds.

White men and Indians alike caught the fever. They accumulated a useless hoard, having no means to transport other than their own backs, and then, all precautions being relaxed, the doomed Indians, whom they despised, rushed the camp when they were sleeping. They were nearly all killed by stones shot from slings. Suarez was only stunned, and he and a Spaniard, with two Indians, were reserved for future slaughter.

"The others were eaten," he said, "and their bones were used for making fire. I saw my friend Guacoma felled like a bullock, and the Indians as well. By chance I was the last. I had no hope of escape. I was too downcast even to make a flight of it when, at the eleventh hour, the mad idea seized me that I might please and astonish my captors by performing a few sleight of hand tricks. Dios, how they gaped! They had never seen the like. All the tribe was summoned to watch me."

Then the poor fellow began to cry.

"Holy mother! Think of me playing the fool before those brutes! I became their medicine man. I fought and killed my only rival, and since then I have doctored a few of the chief men among them, so they took me into the tribe and always managed to procure me such food as I could eat. They gave me roots and dried meat when they themselves were living on
